

There's an endless field in fire
There's a fading lamentation from the choir
One for battle, all for nothing
There's an emptiness around you when you're falling

Every second, every day of the week
You've been dying for an endless dream
Every second, every minute you live
You've been trying

Every second, every day of the week
You've been dying for an endless dream
Every second, every minute you live
You've been trying

Now you look at your life like a lifeless battle
Like a one-way spiral
Everybody's screaming like crazy
Oh, if I only had a barrel
I could drown my sorrow
Drinking like no tomorrow
Let me fucking go

There's an ocean, there's a sea
There's a battle I control inside of me
There's an ocean painted red
There's a battle I can't win inside my head

Every second, every day of the week
You've been dying for an endless dream
Every second, every minute you live
You've been trying

Now you look at your life like a lifeless battle
Like a one-way spiral
Everybody's screaming like crazy
Oh, if I only had a barrel
I could drown my sorrow
Drinking like no tomorrow

There's an ocean, there's a sea
There's a battle I control inside of me
There's an ocean painted red
There's a battle I can't win inside my head

Now you look at your life like a lifeless battle
Look at your life like a one-way spiral
Everybody's screaming like crazy
Oh, if I only had a barrel
I could drown my sorrow
Drinking like no tomorrow

Now you look at your life like a lifeless battle
Like a one-way spiral
Everybody's screaming like crazy