

Scintilla

Nosound

A scintilla sparked in my soul
I don't know how it started on its own
It didn't set my heart on fire
Maybe it will, now I know you're a liar

Our love was beautiful and cold like that brisk white winter dawn when the innocence melted like snow even before we came back home

Sunshine is something I should never miss
You made it feel like a stolen bliss
Reaching down to pull me out of your abyss
I know I knew you were never in this

A scintilla sparks in my soul
I don't know how it starts on its own
I'll make sure there's wood for the fire
To go through the night and wake up to desire
