

I remember each one of our secrets
Every single moment
Every single fucking thing I would've loved to tell you
It's been a while I guess
You may be watching from the cold rain clouds
They are never really leaving me

I keep staring at the mirror
Hoping it all gets clearer
But I know it will never be the same
I guess I miss you more than what my heart can ever sing
All these dreams we shared are bringing it all back

I truly hope that you can't see
What time has turned ourselves into
We don't behave like all the ghosts
You locked inside all these empty rooms

No matter the years and the pouring rain
I remember your smile everyday
Just can't forget the promise we made
Even though...
It's been a while now

You told me some wounds never heal
Cause they are meant to make us stronger
Each one of these memories I got left
Let them last a bit longer
Just a bit longer

I'm still laying on this bed sometimes
Open wounds facing the stars
Remembering your voice as it gets dark
Oh time steals us everything...
But time is all we got here

So I will live and I will surely fall
But I will fight to know what it takes to feel alive
What it's like to be a little more like you
Just a little more like you

You told me some wounds never heal
Cause they are meant to make us stronger
Each one of these memories I got left
Let them last a bit longer
Just a bit longer