

Run

November 2nd

I run till I lose my breath
I never stop to think
I run and I never turn back
I'm scared of what I might see

It feels like I'm dancing on sparks
To run in my only chance to hide
For consequences of my deeds
I don't know were they good
Or were they not?

Would you tell me not to cry
And that my life has changed
But I'm the same inside
Would you stay with me awhile
Until this rain is gone

All I can do is to sing this song
It keeps the demons away from my home
The battle's lost but the war will be won
Now that king has lost his throne

I work so long I get so tired
I never get enough sleep
I say I'm a queen on my own
But I don't know what that means

I feel like bathing in the light of dawn
I don't know which way to go
One is safe, the other's steep
I walk on both but it seems
I'm getting nowhere

Would you tell me not to cry
And that my life has changed
But I'm the same inside
Would you stay with me awhile
Until this rain is gone

I try but I can't see nothing clear

Would you tell me not to cry
And that my life has changed
But I'm the same inside
Would you stay with me awhile
Until this rain is gone

All I can do is to sing this song
It keeps the demons away from my home
The battle's lost but the war will be won
Now that king has lost his throne
