

still

nothing,nowhere.

I put my face out the window
And the car drives away slow
The back seat never felt so far away from you
There's a space in my rib cage
I was told it's supposed to hold a heart
And all I see in the sky is death

I see the moon behind the Tobin bridge
You say you're fine, I know you're full of shit
'Cause when it rains it pours
The water falls off of your forehead
All of the things that I said should have stayed in my head
And I'll have you know I'm a mess like the sheets in my bed
It's funny how everyone seems to be perfectly fine
But when you're alone starts to rain from the lids of your eyes

Was it you who told me to Keep my chin up?
And is it true what they say
That as you die, you live all of the mistakes you've made?

I put my face out the window
And the car drives away slow
The back seat never felt so far away from you
There's a space in my rib cage
I was told it's supposed to hold a heart
And all I see in the sky is death
