

What You Want

Nuno Bettencourt

What you want
A million marbles and an ice cream car
What you want
A melted nova wouldn't get you far
What you want
A million acres for a rockinghorse
What you want
Is not enough

I don't know much the future prophecies
I don't know why they're walking on their knees
But I do know that emptiness you feel
I know the sun will always chase away the moon

What you want
A white chocolate wedding in a leggo church
What you want
A beauty pageant with a kung fu grip
What you want
A silver bullet for a plastic gun
What you want
Is not enough

I don't know much the future prophecies
I don't know why they're walking on their knees
But I do know that emptiness you feel
I know the sun will always chase away the moon

I really know how you feel you're not alone
I really know how you feel

I don't know much the future prophecies
I don't know why they're walking on their knees
But I do know that emptiness you feel
I know a little love is all you need