

Hear me, ablaze the spirit from the inside
And we shall embrace the light
Call me, and redeem our mortal souls alive

A forgotten, fractured soul
That will be never relieved
Vanished in day and night
As undying demise
We dissolve into

The dawn and the void
Godforsaken, our remains in pitch-black mass
We are cursed, we are abandoned now
We are enslaved in a field of bliss

We are lost in time, forlorn in dismal grief
We emerged in rebirth, revealed in distress, and forfeit

Hear me, enfold the splendour from the inside
And you shall reveal the night
Call me, an abyss, the eternal and divine

A forgotten, fractured soul
That will be never relieved
Vanished in day and night
As undying demise
We dissolve into

A forgotten, fractured soul
That will be never relieved
Vanished in day and night
As undying demise
We dissolve into

The dawn and the void
Godforsaken, our remains in pitch-black mass
We are cursed, we are abandoned now
We are enslaved in a field of bliss

We are lost in time, forlorn in dismal grief
We farewell in distress, and forfeit
Forevermore, we transcend into night
We depart and we enfold, into cosmos and beyond light

Hear me, ablaze the spirit from the inside
And we shall embrace the light
Call me, and redeem our mortal souls alive

Call me, an abyss, the eternal and divine