

Six Feet Down

Ocean Sleeper

Where do I begin
I just feel so hollow
Everything is just falling apart around me
I hold these secrets to my teeth
No one will know a thing

What's inside me
I can't control myself anymore, help me
Turning my back is all I know
When will these demons just let go

When all hope is lost
And life turns to dust
Stay strong when the world just weighs too much
And I know its hard to have hope
When you're feeling six feet down
When you can't keep up
And you've had enough
Stay strong when the world just weighs too much
And I know its hard to have hope
When you're feeling six feet down

How can this be
I've lost my hold on everything, help me
Turning my back is all I know
When will these demons just let go

I'm slipping through the cracks
Six feet down, six feet down
Turn my back overthrow
I'm giving up
But I'm not letting go

Feel the early morning sun
Feel the change in the wind
I will end this
I will stop this
I'm not giving in
No matter how much I fall
I will find my feet again
Breathe in the fresh air
I am alive
