

Home

Oceans

From the distance
The stars shine so bright
But in the end
They are dead inside

Like a lost astronaut
I sail from star to star
Longing for a place called home
But all I see is dark

From the distance
The stars shine so bright
But in the end
They are dead inside

We are sailors
Through time and space
We disengage
From this human race
We are sailors
Through time and space
We count our days
In this maze that we call home

The longer my Journey takes
The more I fade away
Carried by my own scars
I now belong to the dying stars

We are sailors
Through time and space
We disengage
From this human race
We are sailors
Through time and space
We count our days
In this maze that we call home

Inside we're burning
Burning away our hearts
As we reach for the stars
We forget who we are

From the distance
The stars shine so bright
But in the end
They are dead inside

We are sailors
Through time and space
We disengage
From this human race
We are sailors
Through time and space
We count our days
In this maze that we call home