

As We Suffocate

Of Mice & Men

You spend your life, trapped inside a machine,
Victimized, by the calamity.
You blur the lines, create your reality,
Swear you're awake, but you know you're asleep.

There's no rebuilding,
When the temple comes crashing down.
It's your burden to carry, and your back to break.

Hollow eyes staring as we suffocate.
We're drunk on death, and high on fire.
It's not enough to satiate,
Until the whole world burns away.

Detonate and prosper.
Corrode and bathe yourself in gold.
Throw away forever,
To become eternal.

Hollow eyes staring as we suffocate.
We're drunk on death, and high on fire.
It's not enough to satiate,
Until the whole world burns away.

Drunk on death, and high on fire.