

Pictures of You

Of Virtue

All I have is pictures of you
Reminders of the time that defined the love I knew
All I have is pictures of you
When it starts to fade, the memory still remains

Sitting here in an empty room
Thinking why'd you go so soon?
Ever since that day
Things around here haven't been the same
Leaving me with this pain inside
So hard to close my eyes
Wishing you could stay
This emptiness is killing me

All I have is pictures of you
Reminders of the time that defined the love I knew
All I have is pictures of you
When it starts to fade, the memory still remains

It's so hard to say the words
So hard to say it hurts
Now I'm on my own
Now I'm on my own
Leaving me with this pain inside
So hard to close my eyes
Can't help but feeling lost
But this emptiness is killing me

All I have is pictures of you
Reminders of the time that defined the love I knew
All I have is pictures of you
When it starts to fade, the memory still remains

Now that you're gone without warning
I'm dressed in black in the morning
Waiting for death, praying for rest
Wondering what comes next
My world has fallen apart
Everything around me seems so dark
Waiting for death, praying for rest
Wondering what comes next

When I close my eyes
I still see your face
When I close my eyes
I see you clearly

Your memory still remains

All I have is pictures of you (when I close my eyes)
Reminders of the time that defined the love I knew (I still see your face)
All I have is pictures of you (I see you clearly)
When it starts to fade, the memory still remains

Sitting here in an empty room
Thinking why'd you go so soon?
Ever since that day

Things around here haven't been the same

And when the pictures start to fade
Your memory still remains