

Torn Apart

Of Virtue

I can see it in your eyes
You're set to take your own life
I can see the scars you hide
They show the demons inside your mind

The marks on your ankles
They show your struggles
Buried underneath

You said you were ready to die
You were pressing your skin to the knife
But there is purpose left for you in this life

With my faith and your love
We can stand the test of time and space
As we sway in the storm
Hold me close so we are not torn apart

I can feel your hatred
In your silence
I've been listening

You said you were ready to die
You were pressing your skin to the knife
But there is purpose left for you in this life

With my faith and your love
We can stand the test of time and space
As we sway in the storm
Hold me close so we are not torn apart

(We fight)
Until we can't anymore
(We fight)
To free us from this disease
(We fight)
Until we reach the end

There's always something left to give

With my faith and your love
We can stand the test of time and space
As we sway in the storm
Hold me close so we are not torn apart

(Hold me close and don't let go)
(You know you're not alone)
As we sway in the storm
Hold me close so (we are not torn apart)
Hold me close so we are not torn apart
