

Don't You Worry, Love

Oh Honey

When your head feels heavy,
And you're walking alone
When the road is empty,
And everything you own is broken or sold

Light will always find its way in
Into the cracks of the night
Open your eyes

When the world gets dark,
Don't you worry, love
And the demons, let 'em starve,
Don't you worry, love

When the air gets colder,
Don't let your heart turn to stone
Let the weight fall off your shoulders,
And know in the end you'll find your way home

Light will always find its way in
Into the cracks of the night
Open your eyes

When the world gets dark,
Don't you worry, love
And the demons, let 'em starve,
Don't you worry, love

The fear in my chest
Is burning fire red
You know, you know, you know
My love is turning blue
I'd never lie to you
There's hope, there's hope, there's hope

When the world gets dark,
Don't you worry, love
And the demons, let 'em starve,
Don't you worry, love