Oliver Tree

Like a fiction based life form, call me cartoon
Like escaping colors from a box, filling dark rooms
Like illuminating sky patterns, breaking up
Like a dream with your lover, don't wake me up
Like a solar eclipse when the sun parts with the moon
Like the summer being over but it came too soon
Like the moment that your essence became crystal clear
Like the flowers in the spring, show your face once a year

All good things come to an end, that's just the way it's always been

It might not seem that fair to you but it is the start of somet hing new

Like the day that marks the death of your first family pet Like a beautiful mirage, how much closer can I get?
Like the magic at night In the air of a show
Like your old best friends, that you don't even know
Like your last goodbye when it's time to let go
Like the happiness inside you when your flesh starts to glow
Like losing child innocence as we grow old
Like the best things seem to vanish as our lives unfold

All good things come to an end, that's just the way it's always

It might not seem that fair to you but it is the start of somet
