

Heart Change

Olivia Lane

Tryna find peace in a world we keep ripping each other to pieces

Too many back and forth I'm right, you're wrong reasons
Can't even agree to disagree, we just believe what we believe
Tryna find peace in a world somebody please help me see it

There's a fine line between passion and hate
Words don't help the problem coming from a cold dark place
It's a hard thing to do, easy to say
We need a heart change

Everyone wanna fix the world without pointing fingers at themselves

But a real fix comes when you start to fix yourself
We all race a different race, make mistakes, need some grace
At the end of the day everybody's got a choice to make

There's a fine line between passion and hate
Words don't help the problem coming from a cold dark place
It's a hard thing to do, easy to say
We need a heart change

When you let yourself be wrong
You might be closer to being right
It's in our blood to love
Hearts are red, not black and white

There's a fine line between passion and hate
Words don't help the problem coming from a cold dark place
It's a hard thing to do, easy to say
We can't rewrite the past but we can start a brand new page
It's a hard thing to do, easy to say
We need a heart change
We need a heart change
