

In Between

Ollie

Feel like I woke up from a dream, somewhere in between
I pretend my life a movie scene, I need a Billie Jean
I've been in the gym I'm getting lean, for my self-esteem
So much on a screen, I'm 'bout to scream, light this kerosene

Phone on DND, ignoring calls, funny what it solve
People telling tales, but they tall, tryna get involved
I know that it's hard to hear the truth, but I want it all
Quicker like you pulling out a tooth, let the water fall

Both my hands I'm putting in the air, act like no one's here
Some people a victim to they fear, way too self-aware
I ain't playing safe, I love to dare, tend to overshare
Wearing my emotions on my sleeve, okay let 'em stare, I'm not hiding me

Don't go living someone else's dream
It's alright to be lost when you're searching closure
Know the sun still shines when you're falling in between
Hold tight, give it time, and the storm will be over

Let go of the weight as I breathe fresh air
I know that God put the stars 'round me
If you never change, you ain't going nowhere
Why avoid pain if regret's not free?

If you take a chance, then you cannot lose
When your life's hard, then you know you're not weak
Focus on the good things, they just take time
I ain't giving up on the vision I see

Don't go living someone else's dream
It's alright to be lost when you're searching closure
Know the sun still shines when you're falling in between
Hold tight, give it time, and the storm will be over
