

If grief could burn us out
We'd turn to coal
There's someone in your life
That heals your wounds
Bereft inside your heart
It grows like wombs
The wax always gets poured inside the mold

The light glows through the sheets
We lie beneath
Your body covers me
Reminding me
Remembered I'm awake
'Cause I forgot
We're silent like the trees
A silent subtlety
For only you and me
You and me

If grief could burn us out
We'd turn to coal
There's someone in your life
That heals your wounds
Bereft inside your heart
It grows like wombs
The wax always gets poured inside the mold

The light glows through the sheets
We lie beneath
Your body covers me
Reminding me
Remembered I'm awake
'Cause I forgot
We're silent like the trees
A silent subtlety
For only you and me
You and me

I've been ignorant, I can be like that
We don't conversate, we just burn our backs
Lying on a star, we still stay intact
You're my only one, I can promise that
If we go to hell, you can hold my hand
Brace yourself, water pulls the sand
Before you leave, give me one more dance
Before you leave, give me one more dance

For only you and me
Give me one more dance
Before you go
Before you go
