

Elevation (Interlude)

Omarion

Life is a full circle

In the beginning, something was created from nothing
And that nothing began to travel and expand through the omniverse, the universe, through the worlds
In that beginning, that created thing, that created idea
Began to travel and spin and spiral
Like a boomerang being thrown, it comes back to the creator, back to the maker
Your ideas are your making, you're creating them
What you are consuming is consuming you
What you are creating is creating you, and coming back around to you
Back to the original you, the one that created it in the beginning
Original ideas keep coming back around in a circadian rhythm
Coming back to the creator

Experiences, friends, relations, things, ideas keep coming back around when they are original
It is up to each one of us to be the navigators of our life and choose what comes back around
Full Circle
We are all in a spiral, a circle, a rhythm, the O
