Life is what?
You lie to yourself just as much as they lie to you
But only you choose what you believe
The only truth you know in life is death, you seek all other Where do you find your worth? Your motivation?
When nothing matters is when you find out who you are
We are all guilty, we are all sinners, this does not make us ev il
We are only human
We can all find purpose
