

I Can't Help But Ask

OmenXIII

I think I need to get far far away
To a place where the sun will never raise
To a place without time without space
I close my eyes when you call and you take me away

So here I go, falling down again
So here I go, falling down again

When my world falls apart, Will you pick up the pieces?
I've been looking for some peace, but there is nothing left in me
Let me be, let me down, turn around and go
I can't take another toll
Hold this rope and don't let go
I promise it will all be over soon

And there you go, falling down again
And there you go, falling down again
And there you go, falling down again
And there you go, falling down again