

Remember

OmenXIII

PurpDogg on the beat

It's the same thing time and time again
Put my life on the line to find a means to an end
It's all in my mind, it's all in my head
Should I still be alive or am I better off dead?
We don't gotta live, I think we all gotta try
We ride through the night, whether we live or we die
It's all in our heads, it's all in our minds
We live in the dark just so we can see the light

I get the feeling that there's no one watching me
I hear whispers I feel something's calling me
"You're all I need, if anything
Remember me, remember me"

A slave to the blood that I release with my knife
I keep turning away until there's nothing in sight
Feels like there's nothing inside, and so I swallow my pride
But that can't just subside the hunger I have of time

It's the price that we pay, that measures all our success
Trust me, I've seen it all, so I know what to expect
How the fuck can you give, what you can't even accept?
Don't look into my eyes, unless you're ready for death

I get the feeling that there's no one watching me
I hear whispers I feel something's calling me
"You're all I need, if anything
Remember me, remember me"