Passenger

Once Human

We stand upon the hands of borrowed time
All we are must be returned
We parallel the elements from the sky
With a limit to the light we burn

We're monoliths with everything to lose
A dusty abyss, obscure and diffuse
Particle, this is not your helm
Let go of control, and flow as a cell

A journey by the will of the sun
We are many yet we are none
We've only just begun, we fade
Passenger, you have overstayed
Your welcome

Your help comes
They come with suns and spears of light
That disappear with you
You say you'll change, you misunderstand
You think you have time to kill but time is a greater hitman

A supernova in our eyes
A sole reminder we are finite
A supernova in our eyes
One sole reminder we are finite

You and me
We are the passengers just passing through
You are not acting alone, collide if you don't let go

You and me
Just passing through
You and me
We are the passengers
You and me
Just passing through
We are the passengers
You and me
Just passing through
