

Day Dream

One Step Closer

When will the truth ascend
From all the lies you put inside our heads
But when help is called
You push it to the side
In this place, that I know
I cannot call it home
Because I grasp for air
That sickens all our lives

And now where can I go
Once the peace has flown
What's left for me to know?

I want to know, what you're doing to me
Sacrifice what was once right
But now you wish away your life
And the chaos controls my head
Only seen the worst
When the best was in your hands
And now it ends
It ends
Should have seen it more clearly from the start

True colors bleed
When no one speaks
I can't go on without your need
In this daydream I'm free

This feeling that encloses me
We are the curse, can't turn away
This feeling just won't go away
We can't control what caused this pain

Nothing left but rain
To me it's wasted memories
Make you believe, but don't expect to see
Except you and me