

Your Game

One Without

Surrounded by the ever-screaming echoes of your voice can't see the truth though evidence is right before my eyes

You led me in to your game and never cared because

You leave the riddle unsolved forcing me to throw away a life that could have been much more than a show
for you

I think of all the time that we spent and now it's gone I know it's for the best but it is hard to be alone

You led me in to your game
and never cared because

You leave the riddle unsolved
forcing me to throw away
a life that could have been
much more than a show
for you

You leave the riddle unsolved
forcing me to throw away
you leave the riddle unsolved you're forcing me to throw away
a life that could have been so much more