

Parting

ONEWE

Repeating collision in between you and me
When it fades away but you're already so far away
In just one day before the asteroid
Falls down to the earth, to say the words I haven't said

Gravity draws up slowly pulling me from the heavy ground
Looking at the falling sandglass telling me, now it's time to leave
Dark shadows falling down, I can feel it's hurting me so much
Close my eyes with you and let me leave my ears to you

The sky blooming night with the stars (Oh, deep in that sky)
The dusts stacked on stars breathe short of breath

Repeating collision in between you and me
When it fades away but you're already so far away
In just one day before the asteroid
Falls down to the earth, to say the words I haven't said

I wanna fly high to the sky
Deep in the sky, who am I? It's a dilemma
I won't leave your stars
The dark end of the sky spreading out the goodbye

Words are in my mind
Gotta tell you but I can't ever say to you
Somewhere in between our countless farewells
Keep our memories deep inside
Endless sounds keep ringing in my ears
The angels without wings shining divine sounds

Somewhere down the galaxy
It's okay, this place
I can breathe, leave the worries and pain
The last whisper of the marionette
I will bury it here in the time and space
Until the end we are here

Repeating collision in between you and me
When it fades away but you're already so far away
In just one day before the asteroid
Falls down to the earth, to say the words I haven't said

Your touch, you're the one
That will save me from burning (Don't ever let me go)
Even at the end of the world
I will never let you go
The end getting close the moment
Coming up slowly
When they have all gone
I will find my light

Let me call you back again flowing time and space
Placing your name in my heart though it hurts me bad
A feeling of regrets, a dusky feeling, and unload

Under the star, the little sized asteroid
If I go back in time, if I can be your light once again

I promise you, every day and every night
I'll tell you all my truth without any lies (Yeah)

I wanna fly high to the sky
Deep in the sky, who am I? It's a dilemma
I won't leave your stars
The dark end of the sky spreading out the goodbye