

A Bunch Of Things I Don't Know

Oso Oso

I think you did this thing to me
Where time flies
The next thing that I realize
It's been one week
That we spent underneath your sheets

And you could have the worst of me
The left feet, the jagged teeth, the ADD
The stubbornness and reluctance to acknowledge it

And I don't know what you want me to say
Since you came around I guess I've found a new reason to stay
And I don't know how, but I turned out this way
And I've been trying for forever just to learn how to say

A bunch of things that I don't know

And only time will let you see
The mistake that you made in loving me
The days we chose to drown in
The fall that came around

And I don't know what you want me to say
Since you came around I guess I've found a new reason to stay
And I don't know how, but I turned out this way
And I've been trying for forever just to learn how to say

How I want to
Mean that much more to you
How I want to
Mean that much more to you
