Our Last Night

The winter was dark
(The winter was dark)

Sitting at the table with a glass half empty, we were doomed
Creating a fate that we couldn't escape, salt for future wounds

We burned hope down before it even touched a flame
A death wish on ourselves and we're the only ones to blame

The winter was dark before the leaves had fallen
We predicted our scars before the skin cut open
Now we're covered by clouds and the rain is falling down
We pushed the sun away until the winter was dark
(The winter was dark)

Living in the shadows like we had a crystal ball
Thought we knew when the story would end, predicting our own fall

We burned hope down before it even touched a flame
A death wish on ourselves and we're the only ones to blame

Self-destructive, pessimistic, self-fulfilling prophecy
We become what we assume, we become what we assume
Self-destructive, pessimistic, self-fulfilling prophecy
We become what we assume, we become what we assume
Self-destructive, pessimistic, self-fulfilling prophecy
We become what we assume, we become what we assume
Self-destructive, pessimistic, self-fulfilling prophecy
We become what we assume, we become what we assume

The winter was dark before the leaves had fallen
We predicted our scars before the skin cut open
Now we're covered by clouds and the rain is falling down
We pushed the sun away until the winter was dark
The winter was dark
The winter was dark
