

What if I'm the one left breathing
Fading into timeloss

Timeloss

Every laugh and every word
Feels like a memory waiting to hurt
I count the days I count the years
But I can't stop the creeping fear

That one by one you'll fade away
And I'll be the last one here to stay

What if I'm the one left breathing
When the ones I love stop being?
Who will catch me when I fall
If there's no one left at all?

Fading into timeloss

I try to smile I try to speak
But my voice feels thin my body weak
You're still here but time's a thief
Stealing life and leaving grief

I hold you tighter every night
Scared to lose you to the light

What if I'm the one left breathing
When the ones I love stop being?
Who will catch me when I fall
If there's no one left at all?

Don't tell me it's just life
Don't tell me it's alright
I count the moments watching hours slip across
Every heartbeat feels like fading into timeloss

I hold you tighter every night
Scared to lose you to the light

What if I'm the one left breathing
When the ones I love stop being?
Who will catch me when I fall
If there's no one left at all?

Timeloss

Is leaving fractured minds