Like A Radio

Over the Rhine

Confused
Ever since I spied you
In the rooms of my mind
Now I can't deny you

Bleeding and bruised Like a vagabond in rags I've walked the streets to your door To find just what's in store

I see you You and many others In your clean well-lighted place Where I would find disgrace

But I do Know I'd find contentment Just to be your furniture I need nothing more

In the thick of the night Take me out of the cold Let me sing inside Like a radio

In the thick of the night Before we grow too old Let me sing inside Like a radio

Shivering and cold This night's condusive To a flight into my soul But I stand here

Though my heart grows bold Once on the inside I can quietly persist And hold my tears

In the thick of the night Take me out of the cold Let me sing inside Like a radio

In the thick of the night Before we grow too old Let me sing inside

Like a radio Like a radio

And so still I wait
Though I grow much weaker
No, no, no, I will not faint
I'll stay true

Believe me when I say
I'd climb to heaven,
Crawl beneath the lowest hell
To stay near you

In the thick of the night Take me out of the cold Let me sing inside Like a radio

Like a radio Like a radio Like a radio Like a radio
