Overcoats

You feel like a memory but you're sleeping next to me
I'm leaving in the morning
I feel alone with you, I feel alone without you
No matter where I go, I'm splitting into two

Where can I find you to tell you I'm not alright?
How can I tell you I need you by my side?
If you leave me I'll be on my own, so far from home on the road
If you leave me baby you should know that the thought of you is what keeps me going

Distance grows in a single moment and I get farther and farther away from you
Now I'm in your arms, but I'm miles away
I can't speak a word but I need you to stay

Where can I find you to tell you I'm not alright?
How can I tell you I need you by my side?
If you leave me I'll be on my own, so far from home on the road
If you leave me baby you should know that the thought of you is what keeps me going

If you leave me
If you leave me
If you leave me
If you leave me
If you leave me
If you leave me
If you leave me
If you leave me
