

Wilderness

Pantheist

I've come to cherish and I appreciate the love I invested, the trust you gave While times are changing and the world is dark I have you and you have me, and that's all we've got We left our safety and loved domains exposed ourselves to rains and trains the Darkness follows wherever we are but out in the wilderness our fears seem far

You give me hope, you lift me up authentic our vows, undying our love Pray with me, that one morning we will wake up to a better world Together when we are, the sun always seems to shine the most colourful birds, they sing for us wild flowers bloom in perfect harmony, the world in tune

And so, we soldier on and on deeper and deeper in the woods we get lost the world seems crazy, people gone mad there's no right or wrong, nor good or bad Now all we've got, our own compass we'll find our truths, as no one will show us the right direction, the noble path nothing has a centre and nothing made to last

For a moment, we can breathe a sigh of relief that among the pure waters, our suffering has ceased But you act like you always have known that the bliss will soon be over The end I see hidden in your eyes your sadness kills me, lover Walls are being built around us, the air suffocates we are running out of time, running out of space please hold on to what little you can keep in your palm see it slipping through your fingers, say goodbye and move on
