

Let It Out

Parabelle

This is my one break down lost out,
She fell in with the stars,
I'm drinking up the rain drops
From all her precious clouds,
I swear that heaven helped her
And it pulled her from the wall,
It's worth a pretty penny
So pick it up

And it's gone now,
You'll be my coward, my killer at heart,
Oh, let it out now
And it will come down and tear us apart,
Oh, let it out

This is where he breaks down and watches
As he blends in with the ground,
He's been crawling since they made him,
Might make you say, all who left me now
Are fluttering as empty things,
The time for us is now,
The voices sing, they're glittering

When you're gone now
You'll be my coward, my killer at heart,
Oh, let it out now
And it will come down and tear us apart,
Oh, let it out

I don't want to be your circle at all such endless loss
And I don't want to feel this twisted at all when fates have crossed
We break down, beneath the heavy air,
Let it out and

Be gone now
You'll be my coward, my killer at heart,
Oh, let it out now
And it will come down and tear us apart,
Oh, let it out
Oh, let it out