

Runaway

Parabelle

I guess this was something you were told
Something that reminds you of the worst things we tried
To change our crooked lives
Something that could cave in to replace our minds

I guess this is where we met
To change out the message with things left unsaid

Runaway to face yourself
Then stop and stall what's safe
This is where we run in place and guard our hearts
There's still a reason to show
The passion in your eyes

I feel something's taken hold
Something that could tear me limb from limb
Or so I'm told, the dire state is cold
Or did you just rely on the lies you sold

I know this is where it stops
So close off and rest here before you're forgot

Runaway to face yourself
Then stop and stall what's safe
This is where we run in place and guard our hearts
There's still a reason to show
The passion in your eyes

This is what you can't decide
This is where a feeling lies
This is why a coward hides
This is when I cross the darkest line

Runaway to face yourself
Then stop and stall what's safe
This is where we run in place and guard our hearts
There's still a reason to show
The passion when you
Runaway to face yourself
Then stop and stall what's safe
This is where we run in place and guard our hearts
There's still a reason to show
The passion in your eyes