

Shattering

Parabelle

You come around
Come around let's fall
You come around
I can swear I've seen it all

You come around
Come around let's fall
You come around
I can swear I've seen it all

And you could burn all the bodies in hell
And never once make it up to me

And you could spare me the silence you sell
And never not, never not be

A burden
I can't believe that you're folding
Why can't you see what you're causing
And it doesn't matter
That the walls are shattering all in

I can't believe that your faults win
Why can't you see that you're crawling
And it doesn't matter
All the walls are shattering

This is my one calling
For most of your life
This is my one calling
For most of your life

You come around
Come around again
I held you off
Until you begged with force
And you take it
And break it apart

You hold yourself up high again
It's over now
I've said that before
But you're taking it wrong
And making it feel like

A burden
I can't believe that you're folding
Why can't you see what you're causing
And it doesn't matter
That the walls are shattering all in

I can't believe that your faults win
Why can't you see that you're crawling
And it doesn't matter
All the walls are shattering

She whispered loud

In his ear
I burned out, the wind took you
Far away

Now my heart beats outside
You were my everything once
For what it's worth
I let it go
Let it go

So this is my one calling
For most of your life

This is my one calling
For most of your life

A burden
I can't believe that you're folding
Why can't you see what you're causing
And it doesn't matter
That the walls are shattering all in

I can't believe that your faults win
Why can't you see that you're crawling
And it doesn't matter
All the walls are shattering