

Where Will You Be?

Parabelle

Hey, I know you
So many parts that I used to believe
But now I see through you
So many things that I can't unsee

Now where will you be?
When I'm gone I swear to God
It won't be in my thoughts
And where will you be?
Your secrets and regrets and lies
I hope you have the time of your life

I draw the line and nothing's there
Don't read between and think I care
I know you still didn't make this easy for me
'Cause I thought I knew you
It's just destruction that you made
You think you're heaven sent
And all the rules you bend
Make everything end

Now where will you be?
When I'm gone I swear to God
It won't be in my thoughts
And where will you be?
Your secrets and regrets and lies
I hope you have the time of your life

We were both disassembled
We don't fit just right
We don't fit at all
And I won't accept, you want me back
So many times you've been saying that
You won't be here to see me cry
You won't be here to see that I survived
I'm pulling back away
I thought I lost myself
Don't ever try to come back here today
You tried to take my life
So I'm throwing you away

Now where will you be?
When I'm gone I swear to God
It won't be in my thoughts
And where will you be?
Your secrets and regrets and lies
I hope you have the time of your life