

Dunes

Paralysed Age

Come to my heart and listen to my soul
I'm standing still where is my way to take me home
If there's no way I won't go further anymore
My whole world leaves me cold and alone
Memory hurts so many times
My destination destination
Is there anything covering all
My destination destination

Come to my heart and listen to my soul
There's so much in life I really try to forget
It's not just the sorrow the emptiness and pain
Even the glad days burning deep inside

Memory hurts so many times
My destination destination
Watch the dunes moving on
My destination destination

And they're moving on

They're strong and mighty cover everything
They're strong and mighty let us all forget
They bury everything all that is gone and born one day
They bury everything
They bury everything

Memory hurts so many times
My destination destination
Watch the dunes moving on
My destination destination

And the dunes are moving on
Moving on

And the dunes are moving on
Moving on
Moving on

They bury everything all that is gone and born one day
Higher than the grass growing over the past
Something you should know reality of life
At some time or other they discover all your past

Do I know my failures
Do I know the tomorrow
My destination destination
Feeling dull but have to go further
My destination destination

And the dunes are moving on
Moving on

Moving on
