

Rest Of My Life

Parker McCollum

There's a picture frame hanging a little to the side
Some drugs on the counter in the kitchen by the wine
And I'm shaking like winter but I just can't eat
It's just one of those late nights that are never gonna be

And I lay down for a moment, and my eyes start closing
I can't help but wonder why, yeah it's just the rest of my life
Let a couple of hours go by, then I bet it's gonna be alright

It was late September, it was right on time
And it seemed like forever, been weighing on my mind
We were barely speaking, there was no way out
It was probably my fault, it always is somehow

And I lay down for a moment, and my eyes start closing
I can't help but wonder why, yeah it's just the rest of my life
Let a couple of hours go by, then I bet it's gonna be alright

And I lay down for a moment, and my eyes start closing
I can't help but wonder why, yeah it's just the rest of my life
Let a couple of hours go by, then I bet it's gonna be alright

Yeah I bet it's gonna be alright
Yeah I bet it's gonna be alright
I bet it's gonna be alright

There's a picture frame hanging a little to the side
There's some drugs on the counter in the kitchen by the wine