

How We Remember

Pat Barrett

On the night You were betrayed
You took the bread
You gave thanks, and then You said
"This is me broken for you"
In the same way, You took the cup
Your new covenant of love, and you said
"This is me poured out for you"
"This is me poured out for you"

What a saving grace
What a gift of love
This is how we remember
This is how we remember You
What a price You paid
Gave it all for us
And this is how we remember
This is how we remember You

At the table once again
Open hearts and open hands
We will taste and see that You are good
Every time that we receive
We announce Your victory
And we proclaim Your death and life till You return

What a saving grace
What a gift of love
This is how we remember
This is how we remember You
What a price You paid
Gave it all for us
And this is how we remember
This is how we remember You

We won't forget how good You have been
We see it again at the table
At the table of the Lord
We won't forget how good You have been
We see it again at the table, yeah

What a saving grace
What a gift of love
This is how we remember
This is how we remember You
What a price You paid
Gave it all for us
And this is how we remember
This is how we remember You

What a saving grace
What a gift of love
This is how we remember You
What a price You paid
Gave it all for us

This is how we remember You
We remember You
