

Wires and Sparks

Pati Yang

Close your eyes take a breath and hold still for now... for now, take a look at the palm of my hand that's it... that's how, those few lines are the key to my place for now... for now, this is all I can give not much else that's it...

that's why nothing's gonna turn back the time hurts like it should,
you and me like wires and sparks
deep down feels good,
how could we be ever apart look, the castles we build fall apart, for now... for now I've no strength to keep hold the sand, that's it... that's how There's no sign that the wind's gonna change and it's all in the hands Of the forces that brought us the hope, that what's lost can be found

It doesn't have to end up in tears.
So much for the stained memories happiness I try resist, has your name tattooed on my wrists
hurts like it should,
deep down feels good,
tastes sweet but wrong, look the sky is coming alive when we explode, comets burn like us when they die
