

I Can't Forget You

Patti LaBelle

I've forgotten all the heartache
And all the pain that I've known
I've forgotten all the tears, babe
And all the nights I've spent alone

I've forgotten all the bad times
And I'm remembering the good
I've forgotten pointless quarrels we used to have Perhaps we both misunderstood

But I can't forget
No no, I can't forget you
I've tried in fact
Pretending you don't exist anymore
I can't ignore
The fire inside when you touch me
Take me home and make me yours again, baby
Why don't you take me home, sugar

What's to reason when we tried love
And though it's failed, I can't forget
All the happiness I knew from loving you
Can it be love's not over yet

But I can't forget
No no, I can't forget you
I've tried in fact
Pretending you don't exist anymore
I can't ignore
The fire inside when you touch me
Why don't you take me home and make me yours one more time
Oh, baby
Take me home again
Oh, sugar

I can't forget
No no, I can't forget you
I've tried in fact
Pretending you don't exist anymore
I can't ignore
The fire inside when you touch me
I can't, I can't forget, baby

I just can't forget all the sincere moments we spent, baby
When you used to tell me how much you just, how much you just Love, love, love me
I just can't, I can't think about, whoo
I can't imagine you not asking me to go home with you, sugar
Why don't you just take me somewhere
I don't care where
Anywhere
Oh, take me, take me
Take me
Why don't you take me
Take me
Why don't you take me
