

Normal

Patty Larkin

I guess I'm normal after all

I don't feel so crazy

Psychoanalysis after all of this

Fails to amaze me

I guess it's normal fallin' down

And the sound of it frames me

All my pedestals have nothing there to hold

Now they all blame me

All those nightmares

Don't seem strange

Truth is I've seen better days

Anyway

There's no reason or rhyme at all

And nothing can faze me

All the analysts cannot handle this

They can't even face me

All my feelings

Lost in words

The world is reeling from bad to worse

It could get worse

I guess I'm normal after all

Now that normal is crazy

On the wings of a snow white dove

I'd love you to save me
