Sydney, 1926, this is the story of a man Just a kid in from the sticks, just a kid with a plan St George took a gamble, played him in first grade Pretty soon that young man showed them how to flash the blade

And at the age of nineteen he was playing for the State From Adelaide to Brisbane the runs did not abate He hit 'em hard, he hit 'em straight

He was more than just a batsman
He was something like a tide
He was more than just one man
He could take on any side
They always came for Bradman 'cause fortune used to hide in the palm of his hand

A team came out from England Wally Hammond wore his felt hat like a chief All through the summer of '28, '29 they gave the greencaps no relief

Some reputations came to grief

They say the darkest hour is right before the dawn And in the hour of greatest slaughter the great avenger is being born

But who then could have seen the shape of things to come

In Bradman's first test he went for eighteen and for one

They dropped him like a gun

Now big Maurice Tate was the trickiest of them all And a man with a wisecracking habit

But there's one crack that won't stop ringing in his ears

"Hey Whitey, that's my rabbit" Bradman never forgot it

He was more than just a batsman
He was something like a tide
He was more than just one man
He could take on any side
They always came for Bradman 'cause fortune used to hide in the palm of his hand

England 1930 and the seed burst into flower All of Jackson's grace failed him, it was Bradman was the power

He murdered them in Yorkshire, he danced for them in  $\ensuremath{\mathsf{Kent}}$

He laughed at them in Leicestershire, Leeds was an event

The critics could not comprehend hsi nonchalant phenomenon

"Why this man is a machine," they said.

"Even his friends say he isn't human"

Even friends have to cut something

He was more than just a batsman
He was something like a tide
He was more than just one man
He could take on any side
They always came for Bradman 'cause fortune used to
hide in the palm of his hand

Summer 1932 and Captain Douglas had a plan When Larwood bowled to Bradman it was more than man to man

And staid Adelaide nearly boiled over as rage ruled over sense

When Oldfield hit the ground they nearly jumped the fence

Now Bill Woodill was as fine a man as ever went to wicket

And the bruises on his body that day showed that he could stick it

But to this day he's still quoted and only he could wear it

"There's two teams out there today and only one of them's playing cricket."

He was longer than a memory, bigger than a town He feet they used to sparkle and he always kept them on the ground

Fathers took their sons who never lost the sound of the roar of the grandstand

Now shadows they grow longer and there's so mush more yet to be told  $% \left( 1\right) =\left( 1\right) +\left( 1\right$

But we're not getting any younger, so let the part tell the whole

Now the players all wear colours, the circus is in town  $\ensuremath{\text{I}}$  can no longer go down there, down to that sacred ground

He was more than just a batsman
He was something like a tide
He was more than just one man
He could take on any side
They always came for Bradman 'cause fortune used to hide in the palm of his hand
