Devotion

Paul Weller

Devotion is the key to the lock that holds your dreams sending whispers from afar as these ways to find your heart now you things you never said you must now say them all

Devotion gets you up on those mornings in the dark when you fumble for the light asking whats should day be like it answers with a call as devotion leads you on

There you go with your head full of ideas it shows
there's a purpose in your feet

Let it fall down in a crawl let it part don't leave the course

Stay!

in these loving arms

Devotion fills the room takes the things we love too soon pieces empty at a time til we see the sun shall rise and now after we have gone as devotion carries on

Devotion sets you free stops you spinning in the street ties you gently to a tree comesback for you at dawn picks you up and makes you strong

And you know that you better get it right
there's a purpose day and night

Don't let it go down in a crawl let it fall don't leave the course

Stay!
