

Spring Theory

PEABOD

Oh, I wish that

Last summer's cherry cucumber flavor could last forever
No wonder fall did a number on me when it came around (Oh, it came around)
Big autumn brought its own problems and tripped me for good measure
Fell so hard that when I got up, the world was upside (Down) down, (Down) down (Down, down)
See, I know seasons change and the same is true for humans
Is that metaphor too tired? 'Cause my seasons ain't been movin' (No)
Yeah, I remember summer, and everything changed in fall
It's been six more weeks of winter, when is spring gonna call? (Hi, hi)

Hypothetically speaking, I know time should bring a new season
But if I'm honest, right now everything's dreary
So I hold on to my spring theory

(Hold on) Spring theory
(Hold on) Spring theory
Yeah

Ayy, came up south of Rain City, so I know
How to wait, wait around for the sun to finally show
And it goes on for what seems like forever
But when it comes around, it's better late than never
So God, I been waitin', I even seen glimpses while prayin'
I thought I was patient, but clearly I'm still feelin' big feelings
Most days I watch grass grow (Mm-mm-mm)
Most days time moves that slow

Hypothetically speaking
I know time should bring a new season
But if I'm honest, right now everything's dreary
So I hold on to my spring theory

(Hold on) Spring theory
(Hold on) Spring theory
(Hold on) Spring theory
(Hold on)

Last summer's cherry cucumber flavor was quite a memory
But reminiscing and missing that taste won't bring it around (Oh, it came around)
Could autumn be some forgotten road to sanctuary?
Stripping away the display to show the solid ground
Everything I trusted in is broken down and rusted in
From practice to people
But You came like a gust of wind when I was standing bristling
Outside the cathedral (Feeling big feelings)
You call my name, call me home, call me loved when I'm weary
You are the way, You're the hope, You're enough (Spring)

Hypothetically speaking
I know time should bring a new season
But if I'm honest, right now everything's dreary
So I hold on to my spring theory

(Hold on) Spring theory

(Hold on) Spring theory
(Hold on) Spring theory
(Hold on)