

You make the word love your enemy to play in this comedy
Betraying things I believed in
Your uttered words were a sin
Your love shaped the grim reaper
I felt the pain just after
I didn't breathe anymore and threw my pride on the floor
What was your reason to tramp our passion?
Did you know it was a poison for me?
Hurting me furthermore, leaving me on the floor

What? Now! What never comes around comes at last
Don't try to fill that empty se
As we should have seen it for a while
What? Now! What never comes around comes at last
Don't try to fight that empty se
As we do go so far, now, go arise!

Betrayal?
I say to myself my love has gone
Life is sometimes hard to describe
As we only survive thanks to a vision
I never succumbed to madness
Even if I felt its dark embrace
Pain can have some many faces
Only one turned my heart into ashes

Would you die for a god you'll never be?
A model of perfection, you see?
And every smile on your face will be a bitter mission
Change yourself as you won't change your side
Anytime you've gotta feel that pride
Don't try to fight that empty se
As we do go so far, now, go arise!
Somehow, someday, a still unknown smile will carry me
Rousing me from my lethargy to forget all what I've done
I live for this day and I will deny who I ever pretend to be Nonexistence... So much distance...
In the underground of my soul that I even dare to know
Where should I have gone
(For the one you will give your body and soul)
And I will float and rise
(For the one you will give your body and soul)
From the ground and I'm still waiting for a sign

Betrayal?
I say to myself my love has gone
Life is sometimes hard to describe
As we only survive thanks to a vision

I died for love
I gave my soul and hope