

It Was You

Pepper

Your running circles over my mind
I keep on walking in a straight line, straight line
Closer to you than any other time
But there's been a change
I'm lost in words cause there's so much to say
The years I've known you all led up to this day
Watching those lovers slip and fade away, just part of the game

It was you, oh-oh, you were just what I needed
Because you, oh-oh-oh, bring the best out of me
And I don't mind what you may not know, 'cause what I've found is: you were just what I needed

Know well enough that you don't play by rules, and you can choose any one tip of your booze
I'm holding out 'till I'm holding you, with no baggage to claim
You ask me with a nod if something's up
I switch the topic and return to my car
I realize this shit has got to stop, 'cause I need to explain:

It was you, oh-oh, you were just what I needed
Because you, oh-oh-oh-oh, you let me be who I be But if I keep on making the same mistakes again, oh
I won't learn the lesson, 'cause here is my confession, 'cause it's driving me insane, yeah
Here I go now, one more time girl, I need to say:

It was you, oh-oh, you were just what I needed
Because you, oh-oh-oh, you-you-you-you, you bring the best out of me
And I don't mind what that you may not know, 'cause what I found is: you were just what I needed, yeah
Here I go, say it louder, I need to say
