

No Front Teeth

Perfume Genius

No front teeth, where they all used to go
Broken apart and shinin'
No front teeth, but a feeling I know
Back where the starting line is

It's on the camera
Thrown to the floor
And I grin just a little
It's in the palm of my hand
I feel something
My entire life, it's fine

Better days, nothing touch me
Light, it breaks on the wings of a dove
Better days, let them touch me
Let it take everything that I know
Let it take everything that I know

No front teeth, where they all used to go
Foaming my parquet lining
Suddenly, when the cover is pulled
Can I just rest beside it?

It's on the camera
Thrown to the floor
And I grin just a little
It's in the palm of my hand
I feel something
My entire life

Better days, nothing touch me
Light, it breaks on the wings of a dove
Better days, nothing touch me
Let it take everything that I love
Let it take everything that I love
Let it take everything that I love
Better days, nothing touch me
Light, it breaks on the wings of a dove
Better days, nothing touch me
Let it take everything that I love
Let it take everything that I love
Let it take everything that I love

Written by:
Mike Hadreas