

Sentient Glow

Periphery

Fake it
Our way of life so simple
Thinking we have it all
A choice we've made
Embrace the world in vain and shun the true human calling

It's only a matter of time before the waves consume us all
The gods will show no favor for what we are
Should I accept this fate?
Or maybe we can make an escape
Your life is what I need and one I'll surely save

Days they pass
Constructing a path to the stars bending space and time
Collecting solitude
Travel, I will, these light years in search of the savior race
Who must answer our dying call?

Watch the horizon fade within your eyes
Within you
I have to trust I will pull through
This is the end of the suffering

Uncertainty taking hold of the exit scheme
Will this be the death of me?
The end is near!
It's only a matter of time before the rocks come crashing down
Their souls collecting sorrows on the way out

Should we accept our fate?
Or maybe we can make an escape
This world is what I need and one I'll surely save

Days they pass
Constructing a path to the stars bending space and time
Collecting solitude
Travel, I will these light years in search of the savior race
Who must answer our dying call?

Watch the horizon fade within your eyes
The warmth that reflects lets me know, I'm still alive!...

Carry the weight of a thousand worlds within my heart
I've had enough of this
I have to trust I will pull through
This is the end!
Don't ask how we lost our way
Follow the stars to the place where we used to lay!...