

Making Every Moment Count

Peter Allen

The night we said goodbye was full of tears
It seems so long ago
But still the love remained through all the years
And now we can't let go
What if we hadn't been so proud
Could've had it all so now we're making

Every moment count from now on
All we have is now and each other
Because our love was meant to last
We'll take it slow, lover to lover
Time is on our side
We're making every moment count tonight

Now we found each other once again
It's better than before
If in a lover you can find a friend
Then you can be sure
That we'll never throw it all away
Spending every single day just

Making every moment count from now on
All we have is now and each other
Because our love was meant to last
We'll take it slow, lover to lover
Time is on our side
We're making every moment count tonight

While the feeling is gone
Nothing can stand in our way
It's right cause we know we belong

Here together making every moment count from now on
All we have is now and each other
Because our love was meant to last
We'll take it slow, lover to lover
Time is on our side
And we're making every moment count tonight