

So Much Depends On Love Today

Peter Allen

Somebody looks at you and you feel fifteen
Waking up passions you don't know where they've been
And once again you're at the starting stage
But in this day and age hearts are disengaged

No one has come between myself, me and I
Lately I think I should give it a try
Out of circulation for so long
So right it seems wrong that you came along

So much depends on love today
You can throw your love away
And all that you've done before is over

You've got to love enough for two
To protect the me in you
No more pretending
Those ways are ending
So much depends on love today

I didn't want anyone to come between
Me, and living my life alone where lovers have been
Face the future with an open heart
To let love restart we can't crawl apart

So much depends on love today
If you want love to stay
Then all that you were before rediscover, rediscover
You've got to love enough for two, for two
To protect the me in you
You need befriending
So be what I'm sending
So much of it depends on love
So much depends on love today
You can't throw your love away
And all that you've got before is over, ooh, aah
You've got to love enough for two, baby
To protect the me in you, ooh
No more pretending, aah
Those ways are ending
So much of it depends on you
So much depends on love today
You can't throw your love away
Ooh
